

Labour Market Information

What is Labour Market Information?

- Labour Market Information (LMI) is about the world of work.
- It includes how many people are available to work and how many people employers WANT/NEED to work.
- We can look at LMI locally, so here in Cheshire East, and nationally, so the situation across the country.

What is Labour Market Information?

Jobs and careers available:

- Facts; such as qualifications and skills required, salary and comparisons with other careers
- Stories; such as career journeys, company culture

Study routes:

- College, university, comparisons with apprenticeships

Future trends

- Growing sectors
- Priority skills required by employers

Why do you need to know about Labour Market Information?

- LMI tells you what is happening in the jobs market. It tells you what skills employers are looking for in different sectors and communities.
- It can also help you decide where the job opportunities are and what they are so that you can think about how you might need to develop in the future.
- For example, if you wanted to become a cabin crew member or a pilot, you would need to live close to an airport so that you can easily travel there and back from home.

Why do you need to know about Labour Market Information?

We all have decisions to make about our careers:

- What type of job would I like to do?
- Can I have a job that fits with my interests and hobbies?
- What should I study in order to have the job that I want?

It is also important to consider:

- Where would I like to live in the future?
- What kind of lifestyle would I like and how will I be able to afford this?
- What career opportunities are available locally?
- How might the career opportunities in my area change during the next few years?

Knowing about LMI will help you to make these decisions.

Law

Careers in this sector are about making sure justice is done.

Working in this sector involves being knowledgeable about the law and either helping clients with legal matters or ensuring the right processes are followed in court.

There are two main branches of law professions:

- Lawyers/solicitors/barristers work with clients and advise on legal issues and/or represent their clients in court.
- Judges are public officials who administer the law, presiding over trials and deciding the outcomes.

You can also work in support roles in law, where you are in charge of things like admin and research.
